Psalm 61:8 ESV

So will I ever sing praises to your name, as I perform my vows day after day.

The Late Theologian, Author, & Preacher John Bunyan once said this: “When I worship, I would rather my heart be without words than my words be without heart.

Praising the Lord is an everyday commitment that you can’t stop, and that you don’t want to stop because you know that you have the Lord in your life, and your life will always produce a praise that you don’t leave behind, but it always has a reason to praise the Lord because we know that God means so much to us. Vows are something that is a commitment, just like in a marriage when you talk about in good and bad times marriage vows have to be consistent and have to be real.

Vows are something that you follow through on everyday and at all times. The thing with vows is that when you make vows and you see that, in making that commitment you have made that choice to not reject but you have made that commitment to stay faithful! That’s what praise is.... It is a daily lifestyle, it is a daily assignment, and it is a daily decision that you make and you decide to do it no matter what happens in your life, you make that determination to praise the Lord, and you have no regret in praising Him because you know how good He is.

God is so good to us, and we should never not be silent but we should always be happy with what the Lord has done for us! The Lord is worthy to be praised, and the Lord is always going to get the best praise from me, because I know what He keeps on doing for me, and I know that He has never forsaken us! The Lord will never forsake us, and because the Lord will never not be there for us, we can always praise the Lord because we know how much He means to us!

Praise is always worth doing, when you know who is worthy of it!
